

AISHA, KAZAKHSTAN

TEXT

What have you been doing this week?

It's summer break, so I haven't done anything particularly special. I've been just enjoying my summer break. For example, yesterday I went out with my friends, played with them, and overall, we had a great time.

What do you and your friends usually wear day to day?

Uhm, in our daily lives my friends and I usually wear loose-fitting and comfortable clothes like hoodies, jeans, and T-shirts. We can say that such clothing allows freedom of movement and suits teenagers well.

Do you like modern fashion or more traditional styles?

I prefer modern fashion, but I also appreciate traditional styles. In my opinion, modern styles allow self-expression and comfort. Also, I like when designers combine traditional and modern styles to create unique looks.

Do people still wear traditional clothes today?

Yes, but mostly on special occasions. For example, during the month of Nauryz, I saw students, teachers, and others wearing traditional clothes. Also, in Kazakhstan there are brands that combine tradition and modern clothes to create unique looks which help us to preserve our cultural identity.

Do you think traditional fashion will stay alive in the future?

Yes, of course. I'm sure traditional fashion will continue to exist because many people, including designers and teenagers, are interested in it. Designers are creating modern clothes with traditional ornaments, and young people enjoy wearing them.

Is there anything you would like to say to kids in other countries?

Yes. I wish you happiness, success and unforgettable experiences. No matter where we live, we all have something valuable to share, and I hope in the future we can learn more about each other's traditions, fashion, and cultures.
